CHAIRPERSON'S MESSAGE

Dear Amitians,

"The citizens of a country should not only be law-abiding but should also be actively involved in the development of their nation." Lal Bhadur Shastri
Our youth are not just the leaders of tomorrow, they are the torchbearers of today. In a world that is changing rapidly with technology and information, knowledge alone is not enough. What truly defines a young person is his character — his values, his sense of responsibility, and his compassion for others.
At Amity, It is our earnest effort to inculcate national values, foster respect for our diverse culture, and glorious heritage and teach our children to take pride in being Indian. We believe that education is incomplete without values and a child who respects his culture will always make his country proud. We are proud Indians and our heritage is thousands of years old ,but our thoughts are always new.

In the conducive learning environment provided at our school , the students learn tolerance and respect for all. Our classrooms are the centre stage where we build global mindsets with Indian values. As educators it is our first and foremost duty to create classrooms that breathe tolerance, honesty, integrity, mutual faith ,compassion, commitment and discipline. It is our mission to mould future leaders who combine a broader outlook with a value based approach, possess problem solving skills and confidence, and embrace a global perspective while remaining rooted in Indian culture. A great responsibility rests on the shoulders of the teachers who are the architects of the nation. They ignite students' mind and build their characters with good examples. Inculcating these values is not possible without a strong partnership with parents .what we teach in school must be reinforced at home.
Dear students, I want you to learn and adopt the following core values :
1. Patriotism - Love for the nation
2. Honesty & Integrity - Truthful in thoughts and actions
3. Discipline & Responsibility - Doing duties on time
4. Empathy & Tolerance - Understanding and respecting others
5. Standing for right and staying united.

Values will not only make you good students, but responsible citizens and dynamic leaders of tomorrow.

With blessings
Dr. (Mrs.) Amita Chauhan
Chairperson

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

ॐ
असतो मा सद्गमय।
तमसो मा ज्योतिर्गमय।
मृत्योर्मामृतं गमय।।

Dear Readers,

These timeless words from the Brihadaranyaka Upanishad beautifully capture a journey that every human being undertakes—from ignorance to understanding, weakness to courage, and darkness to the light of wisdom and character. As Indians, we are fortunate to inherit a rich tradition of scriptures, stories and teachings. They teach us not only what to learn, but also how to live—with responsibility, compassion, courage and purpose. Along this journey, we often need someone to show us the way. That person may be a teacher, mentor, parent or role model—the guiding light who helps us recognise our potential and find our way through challenges. Our history is rich with stories of inspiring Gurus and mentors. Varadaraj's journey under Bhaṭṭoji Dīkṣita shows how determination, practice and the right guidance can transform a struggling learner into a distinguished Sanskrit scholar. Savitribai Phule understood the power of education to change lives. By championing the education of girls and working for social equality, she became a mentor and inspiration for generations.

The relationship between Ramakrishna Paramahamsa and young Narendra is another powerful example. Ramakrishna guided him from questioning to spiritual awakening and purposeful action. As Swami Vivekananda, Narendra carried his Guru's message of tolerance, harmony and universal brotherhood to the world. Mahatma Gandhi and Rabindranath Tagore brought their own distinctive visions to education. Gandhi's Nai Talim placed work, skills and self-reliance at its heart, connecting learning with life and action. Tagore believed that children should experience the joy and freedom of learning, and through Visva-Bharati at Santiniketan, he created an environment where nature, creativity and learning could come together beyond the walls of a traditional classroom.

The BHAAG formula shared by our Founder President, Dr. Ashok K. Chauhan, gives us a meaningful framework for the journey of education and must be lived, not merely remembered. Education changes us from within and a teacher becomes the guide, who helps students see possibilities when they see limitations and help them discover the light that already lies within them.

Happy Reading!

AI in Education- Our Partner in Learning

I feel Artificial Intelligence (AI) is changing the way we study.
Learning is no longer just about heavy books and long lectures.
With AI, lessons become fun, interactive, and suited to each student.
AI-powered apps act like friendly tutors.
If I struggle in math,
AI explains step by step until I understand.
Teachers also find it helpful,
as AI checks homework quickly and helps them plan lessons for everyone's needs.
Smart classrooms, virtual labs, and chatbots make learning exciting and stress-free.
Before exams, AI tools give practice tests and revision support, which makes us feel more confident.
AI is not just a machine—it's like a partner in our educational journey.
It makes learning creative, enjoyable, and prepares us for a brighter future.

My New Beginning

I was a child in grade five, happy, playful, full of life.
Then one day everything changed, A new class felt a bit strange.
Now I am in grade six, A middle school student—feels so big! I am excited, I feel proud, Standing tall among the crowd.
I tell my father, "It's okay, I can go to school my way."
No need to walk me to the gate, I can manage, I won't be late.
Now I wear pants instead of shorts, I try to act mature in all my thoughts. More responsible I want to be,
Doing things independently.
I am ready to learn and grow, To discover things I don't know. Middle school is a brand-new start, A new journey for my mind and heart.

School Magic

In the place we learn and play,
Let's go to the school's way.
Where laughter fills the classroom,
And tunes echo in the music room.

Where our favourite teachers come,
The brighter minds we become!
Sometimes they scold us too,
But they help us grow up too!

Beautiful writing in notebooks,
Happy faces and curious looks
Rush through the school gates,
Friends arriving in cheerful mates.

On the ground they play,
Laughing throughout the day,
Running races after school,
Splashes in the swimming pool,

And off we go back to home,
Dreaming of tomorrow as we roam,
In our buses on the way,
Oh! What a tiring day.

The Sunset

The sun sets in robes of gold,
What a beauty to behold.

As the trees turns black,
Golden rivers flow below
The sky is painted orange,
With clouds that glow

The birds head back home,
And peaceful murmurs grow.
The clouds wear a crown of crimson gold,
And stories of days are told.

It's the best time of the day to go for a walk,
Or call a friend to talk.
The pearly white clouds blend into a shade of pink,
The quiet gives you time to think.

The sunset is a beautiful thing to see,
It sets everyone's heart free.
When the Sun bids goodbye,
It's a sight for sore eyes.

Every sunset promises a new sunrise,
To color the morning skies.

The Historical Nightmare

History exam is tomorrow,
Topic is Hitler, dear.
He has not studied anything,
For goodness's sake it's real.
The clock struck twelve,
With a tick so firm.
The student thinks everything is okay,
But the worst is yet to come.
Inside his mind,
A bright light shines.
Suddenly he is in a forest,
"Oh no!" are his lines.
He walks forward,
Looking around.
Creepy sights he sees,
With horror sound.
Footsteps sound behind him,
Thought about running.
He turns around,
What he sees is terrifying.
A coat he is wearing,
With a gun in his hand.
With a menacing grin,
Rises above the land.
"Hitler is my name,
Germany is from where I came.
World war 2 I caused,
Defeated I really was."
He loads his gun,
As doing his usual fun.
With a scream, the student wakes up,
Exam study is done!

The fuel to our fire-teachers

The ones who taught us how to write,
Coaxed us out of our unobtrusive shells,
Constellating our scattered ideas,
Turning them into plausible explanations to dwell.

Help us to become fearless, intrepid,
Refining our dexterity,
Teaching us that we are a drop in the bucket,
In the stark world that we see.

When we feel lost,
They hold out their hand for us to hold,
And leaving it at just the right time,
When we are precocious and ready to create history foretold.

The ones who taught us how to spread our wings,
Before we take flight into the sky,
Delineating our finesse,
Sagacity lining the corners of our decisions,
Being the best, and no less.

Our teachers, our mentors,
Pensive, isn't it,
How much they impact our lives,
And so today-HAPPY TEACHERS DAY !

La Terre, Notre Maison

La Terre est belle, bleue et verte,
Elle nous donne l'air que l'on respire.
Les arbres chantent, la rivière est ouverte,
Les oiseaux volent, libres de leur empire.
Mais l'homme coupe, jette et pollue,
La fumée monte, l'eau devient noire.
Pourtant, demain peut encore être vu, Si nous protégeons notre histoire.
Plantons des fleurs, éteignons les lumières, Nettoyons la plage, gardons la rivière claire.
La nature est douce, elle est sincère, Protégeons-la, c'est notre affaire !
Car sans la Terre, pas de vie, pas d'espoir, Aimons-la chaque jour, c'est notre devoir.

THE SECRET OF THE SCHOOL DESK

For many years hiding secrets has been my talent but not today. From day one I have seen students munching , crying and even napping while the classes are going on . I hope that you have guessed who I am , and if you haven't then I must introduce myself – I am the most underrated and undervalued thing in the school - the school desk . Students always scribble on me without thinking that I do not care but actually, I do care .

I keep records of everything. Students write on me and actually I even have eyes, so don't ever think that no one is watching you.

So , today I would like to introduce a student who grew alongside me – Akiko , she was very silent when she was in first grade . Every year she changed a little bit and by seventh grade she had grown talkative. And now her grades were falling because of her company, I felt very bad so one day while she was gone I wrote hurtful things about her friends on the desk. When Akiko's friends came to her table at lunch to call her they saw all the bad things written for them on the desk. They felt very bad, instantly fought with Akiko and broke their friendship. Akiko was upset because she knew she didn't write those things. But when she tried to explain, nobody believed her at all. I was there witnessing the incident, and was feeling guilty. That day I knew I did a wrong thing .

After that incident Akiko too changed, she then changed her friend circle and only had three- four students whom she could truly call friends. My efforts worked as well and Akiko topped her class. She later graduated and topped the school. My efforts bore good result.

Years after I still have her story scratched on myself, now I don't feel guilty because, my effort brought a positive change.

Raksha Bandhan

Raksha Bandhan is a beautiful Indian festival celebrating the special bond between brothers and sisters. This year, I went to my Massi's house to celebrate. My sister Hiti, along with my cousin sisters Vanya and Vasavi, tied colourful rakhis on my wrist. I promised to protect, support, and always stand by them—and, of course, give them wonderful gifts! Then came the best part: a delicious feast prepared by my Massi. We enjoyed Maharashtrian delicacies like Aamras and aloo puri, Pattod followed by yummy sweets. With laughter, love, and full tummies, Rakhi reminded me that family togetherness is truly priceless!

La paix et l'harmonie mondiale

Un monde meilleur pour tous
La paix est très importante pour tous les pays. Sans paix, les gens ne peuvent pas vivre en sécurité. Les guerres causent des souffrances, détruisent les maisons et empêchent les enfants d'aller à l'école.
L'harmonie mondiale signifie que les pays travaillent ensemble avec respect et compréhension. Chaque personne, quelle que soit sa religion, sa langue ou sa culture, mérite les mêmes droits. Nous devons apprendre à résoudre les conflits par le dialogue et non par la violence.
Les jeunes jouent un rôle essentiel dans la construction d'un monde pacifique. Ils peuvent promouvoir la tolérance, aider les autres et utiliser les réseaux sociaux de manière positive pour diffuser des messages d'amitié. Les organisations internationales, comme l'ONU, travaillent également pour maintenir la paix dans le monde. Elles encouragent la coopération entre les pays et soutiennent les personnes touchées par les conflits.
En conclusion, la paix et l'harmonie mondiale sont les clés d'un avenir meilleur. Si chacun fait preuve de respect, de gentillesse et de solidarité, nous pourrons construire un monde plus sûr et plus heureux pour les générations futures.

The Magical Forest Adventure

Once upon a time, in a small village near a deep green forest, lived a brave boy named Aarav. He loved adventures and often listened to stories about the magical forest near his village. People believed that the forest had talking animals, hidden treasures, and mysterious powers. But nobody dared to enter it because they were afraid of getting lost.

One summer morning, Aarav decided to explore the forest. He packed some food, a bottle of water, a small torch, and his grandfather's old map. As he stepped into the forest, tall trees swayed gently in the wind, and colorful birds chirped happily. Everything looked beautiful and magical.

After walking for some time, Aarav heard a soft crying sound. He followed the sound and found a little rabbit trapped under a fallen branch. Aarav quickly lifted the branch and freed the rabbit. To his surprise, the rabbit spoke!

"Thank you, Aarav," said the rabbit. "I am not an ordinary rabbit. I belong to the magical kingdom hidden deep inside this forest."

Aarav was shocked but excited. The rabbit introduced himself as Snowy and offered to guide Aarav through the magical forest. Together, they crossed sparkling rivers, climbed rocky hills, and passed glowing flowers that lit up the path.

Soon they reached a beautiful golden gate guarded by a giant owl. The owl asked Aarav three questions to test his kindness and wisdom. Aarav answered honestly and politely. The owl smiled and opened the gate.

Inside was a hidden kingdom filled with magical creatures—dancing deer, singing birds, and tiny fairies flying everywhere. In the center stood a grand palace made of crystal.

The Queen of the Forest welcomed Aarav warmly. She told him that a dark magician had stolen the kingdom's magical crystal, which protected the forest from danger. Without it, the forest would slowly lose its magic.

Aarav bravely agreed to help. Snowy led him to a dark cave where the magician lived. Inside the cave, Aarav found the glowing crystal locked inside an iron cage. The magician suddenly appeared and laughed loudly.

"You can never take the crystal!" he shouted.

But Aarav noticed that the cage key was hanging from the magician's belt. Using quick thinking, he distracted the magician by throwing a stone far away. When the magician turned, Aarav grabbed the key, unlocked the cage, and took the crystal.

The cave began to shake as the magician lost his powers. Aarav and Snowy quickly escaped and returned the crystal to the Queen. Instantly, the forest glowed with bright light, flowers bloomed again, and the animals cheered happily.

The Queen thanked Aarav and gifted him a small golden compass. "Whenever you need courage," she said, "This compass will guide you."

As evening arrived, Aarav returned home safely. He told everyone about his magical adventure, but many people found it hard to believe. Still, whenever Aarav looked at the golden compass shining in his room, he smiled, knowing the magical forest was real.

Moral: Courage, kindness, and intelligence can overcome every challenge.
