

My Favourite Memory with My Mother

One of the best moments I have ever had with my mom was when we baked a chocolate cake together on a rainy day. The sky was all grey and it was drizzling outside, so we stayed in the kitchen and decided to do something fun. We got out all the ingredients—flour, eggs, sugar, and cocoa powder—and started mixing everything. We laughed a lot, especially when some flour got on our faces and clothes! Even the whole kitchen smelled yummy while the cake was baking. When it was ready, we decorated it with chocolate chips and shared big slices while watching it rain from the window. I felt really happy and warm inside. It was a simple day, but it felt very special because I was with my mom throughout. I loved that moment so much that I recreated the same cake-baking scene at school last year during an activity. It brought back all the sweet memories!
